

extended their congratulations to the gallant warriors.

Both teams occupied boxes at the Bijou Theatre last night, and during the show cheered each other to the echo. The chorus girls appeared adorned with the colors of the two institutions, and each time they appeared the teams yelled as one man. The house was also filled with cadets and enthusiasts who wished to follow the game to the end.

Both teams were up by 10 o'clock this morning. The visitors won first last night on a special train over the Norfolk and Western at Hockley.

GAME IN DETAIL.

Carolina Team Had Better of Contest Without Score.

First Half.

V. P. I. won the toss and chose to do field. The visitors scored. Treadwell recovered the ball on the kickoff, ran the fifteen yards and advanced the Virginia five-yard line. A fine play brought him eight-yard gain. Treadwell was sent round end for five yards, and again through tackle for eight. Treadwell was strong for a two-yard gain. The Blue was forced away, but a second attempt made the third down.

Nutter won two yards round end, and Treadwell tried the other end, but made no gain. Nutter kicked to the forty-yard line, and the oval was returned two yards. McNeil raced round end for five yards, and brought the ball to mid-field. McNeil fumbled, but the ball was recovered by another Carolina, and then McNeil made first down through tackle, but the Blue were unable to get yards for effective play. Thompson kicked forty yards, and the Blue was down on their ten-yard line. A line back, needed five yards, took Nutter, on a fake, and raced round end for six yards. Nutter tried again, but failed the gain. Treadwell tried failed to make headway, and the Blue were twice forced to gain. Wartington attempted to take a side kick, but was downed, and the ball went all the way over the goal line.

McNeil had a little on an end run, and McNeil tried forward pass, but Smith of the Tech stopped the ball on their twenty-yard line. Treadwell won four yards round end, and Nutter made three on the second down. Nutter kicked thirty yards, and the receiving Carolinian was stopped without gain on the thirty-yard line. Treadwell tried on a long forward pass, and made a brilliant dash for twenty yards. Story tried end, but without result, and the ball rested on the Tech's twelve-yard line. A long kick netted no gain, and Thompson tried a place kick. It was a beautiful position squarely in front of the goal. But Thompson was a moment too late, and the Blue were unable to break through the Tech's line of defense. The puck was won off bounds on the twenty-yard line. It was brought back to position, and Nutter made three yards. V. P. I. was penalized ten yards for holding, and the ball was back to the seven-yard line. Nutter made three yards on a fake kick, and then Wartington tried twenty yards. Nutter made three yards on the twenty-yard line, and Carolina was captured by the Techs on their seven-yard line, ending Carolina's chance to score.

Smith of the Techs went through tackle, with head down, for eight yards, and then made the other two yards necessary. Grant tried a double pass to Bourne, but the ball went over to the visitors' Tech's sixteen-yard line. A forward pass, netted no yards, and Carolina was penalized for throwing the pass too close to centre. The ball was then on the V. P. I.'s twelve-yard-line. Treadwell made a slight gain of three yards, and Nutter, on his frequently-attempted fake kick, was thrown by Davis of Carolina, without gain. Time was called, with the puck in V. P. I.'s possession on their twenty-eight-yard line. Neither side scored.

Second Half.

Both teams were still in good fettle, but the chances seemed better for the Carolinians.

The latter received the kick-off at the west goal. Story received the oval on the ten-yard line, and made a spectacular dash of thirty yards which was one of the most brilliant pieces of work in the whole game. Story tried the line, but without avail. Carolina kicked and the ball was placed on by one of her own men. Dugan, on the thirty-five-yard line, and things looked bright for the Techs.

Story and Smith had netted ten yards through the line. Dugan failed to gain. Mann tried the forward pass. It was anybody's ball, and a Tech captured it on the twenty-seven-yard line. The Techs tried the famous pass, and won seven yards, and Treadwell was sent through tackle for two yards. Another long dash brought a yard, and Nutter tried a fake kick, but was downed behind the line by Foster. Treadwell was thrown for a loss for the quick-footed Grahams, and the Techs were forced to give up what was left to the forty-nine-yard line. The ball was then on the V. P. I.'s seven-yard line. V. P. I. tried the line, but gained nothing. Smith went out for five yards. The oval was then on the contract field, while it was downed. V. P. I. took the ball on a fumble, and Carolina kicked to the Techs' twenty-eight-yard line, where it was caught by a Tech.

Now, as if to add to the second half, a second attempt was made, and the ball was downed in mid-field. McNeil made two runs, went through the line for five yards, and Pittman failed to gain, and McNeil added three more, and then Mann, on a well-made take, was sent in a spiral spin round end for ten yards. Nutter was a success in a running attack, and after the visitors had broken, while the Techs dashed right and left to the line, the ball was brought back. After a little more scrummage the ball was sent to the mid-field, where it was in the Techs' possession. McNeil tried end, and again stumbled and fell, looking as giddy. The ball was kicked to Nutter on the thirty-

fourth-yard line, and the Techs

were unable to get it in. The Techs were still in good fettle, but the chances seemed better for the Carolinians.

The latter received the kick-off at the west goal. Story received the oval on the ten-yard line, and made a spectacular dash of thirty yards which was one of the most brilliant pieces of work in the whole game. Story tried the line, but without avail. Carolina kicked and the ball was placed on by one of her own men. Dugan, on the thirty-five-yard line, and things looked bright for the Techs.

Story and Smith had netted ten yards through the line. Dugan failed to gain.

Mann tried the forward pass. It was anybody's ball, and a Tech captured it on the twenty-seven-yard line. The Techs tried the famous pass, and won seven yards, and Treadwell was sent through tackle for two yards. Another long dash brought a yard, and Nutter tried a fake kick, but was downed behind the line by Foster. Treadwell was thrown for a loss for the quick-footed Grahams, and the Techs were forced to give up what was left to the forty-nine-yard line. The ball was then on the V. P. I.'s seven-yard line. V. P. I. tried the line, but gained nothing. Smith went out for five yards. The oval was then on the contract field, while it was downed. V. P. I. took the ball on a fumble, and Carolina kicked to the Techs' twenty-eight-yard line, where it was caught by a Tech.

Now, as if to add to the second half,

a second attempt was made, and the ball was downed in mid-field. McNeil made two runs, went through the line for five yards, and Pittman failed to gain, and McNeil added three more, and then Mann, on a well-made take, was sent in a spiral spin round end for ten yards. Nutter was a success in a running attack, and after the visitors had broken, while the Techs dashed right and left to the line, the ball was brought back. After a little more scrummage the ball was sent to the mid-field, where it was in the Techs' possession. McNeil tried end, and again stumbled and fell, looking as giddy. The ball was kicked to Nutter on the thirty-

fourth-yard line, and the Techs

were still in good fettle, but the chances seemed better for the Carolinians.

The latter received the kick-off at the west goal. Story received the oval on the ten-yard line, and made a spectacular dash of thirty yards which was one of the most brilliant pieces of work in the whole game. Story tried the line, but without avail. Carolina kicked and the ball was placed on by one of her own men. Dugan, on the thirty-five-yard line, and things looked bright for the Techs.

Story and Smith had netted ten yards through the line. Dugan failed to gain.

Mann tried the forward pass. It was anybody's ball, and a Tech captured it on the twenty-seven-yard line. The Techs tried the famous pass, and won seven yards, and Treadwell was sent through tackle for two yards. Another long dash brought a yard, and Nutter tried a fake kick, but was downed behind the line by Foster. Treadwell was thrown for a loss for the quick-footed Grahams, and the Techs were forced to give up what was left to the forty-nine-yard line. The ball was then on the V. P. I.'s seven-yard line. V. P. I. tried the line, but gained nothing. Smith went out for five yards. The oval was then on the contract field, while it was downed. V. P. I. took the ball on a fumble, and Carolina kicked to the Techs' twenty-eight-yard line, where it was caught by a Tech.

Now, as if to add to the second half,

a second attempt was made, and the ball was downed in mid-field. McNeil made two runs, went through the line for five yards, and Pittman failed to gain, and McNeil added three more, and then Mann, on a well-made take, was sent in a spiral spin round end for ten yards. Nutter was a success in a running attack, and after the visitors had broken, while the Techs dashed right and left to the line, the ball was brought back. After a little more scrummage the ball was sent to the mid-field, where it was in the Techs' possession. McNeil tried end, and again stumbled and fell, looking as giddy. The ball was kicked to Nutter on the thirty-

fourth-yard line, and the Techs

were still in good fettle, but the chances seemed better for the Carolinians.

The latter received the kick-off at the west goal. Story received the oval on the ten-yard line, and made a spectacular dash of thirty yards which was one of the most brilliant pieces of work in the whole game. Story tried the line, but without avail. Carolina kicked and the ball was placed on by one of her own men. Dugan, on the thirty-five-yard line, and things looked bright for the Techs.

Story and Smith had netted ten yards through the line. Dugan failed to gain.

Mann tried the forward pass. It was anybody's ball, and a Tech captured it on the twenty-seven-yard line. The Techs tried the famous pass, and won seven yards, and Treadwell was sent through tackle for two yards. Another long dash brought a yard, and Nutter tried a fake kick, but was downed behind the line by Foster. Treadwell was thrown for a loss for the quick-footed Grahams, and the Techs were forced to give up what was left to the forty-nine-yard line. The ball was then on the V. P. I.'s seven-yard line. V. P. I. tried the line, but gained nothing. Smith went out for five yards. The oval was then on the contract field, while it was downed. V. P. I. took the ball on a fumble, and Carolina kicked to the Techs' twenty-eight-yard line, where it was caught by a Tech.

Now, as if to add to the second half,

a second attempt was made, and the ball was downed in mid-field. McNeil made two runs, went through the line for five yards, and Pittman failed to gain, and McNeil added three more, and then Mann, on a well-made take, was sent in a spiral spin round end for ten yards. Nutter was a success in a running attack, and after the visitors had broken, while the Techs dashed right and left to the line, the ball was brought back. After a little more scrummage the ball was sent to the mid-field, where it was in the Techs' possession. McNeil tried end, and again stumbled and fell, looking as giddy. The ball was kicked to Nutter on the thirty-

fourth-yard line, and the Techs

were still in good fettle, but the chances seemed better for the Carolinians.

The latter received the kick-off at the west goal. Story received the oval on the ten-yard line, and made a spectacular dash of thirty yards which was one of the most brilliant pieces of work in the whole game. Story tried the line, but without avail. Carolina kicked and the ball was placed on by one of her own men. Dugan, on the thirty-five-yard line, and things looked bright for the Techs.

Story and Smith had netted ten yards through the line. Dugan failed to gain.

Mann tried the forward pass. It was anybody's ball, and a Tech captured it on the twenty-seven-yard line. The Techs tried the famous pass, and won seven yards, and Treadwell was sent through tackle for two yards. Another long dash brought a yard, and Nutter tried a fake kick, but was downed behind the line by Foster. Treadwell was thrown for a loss for the quick-footed Grahams, and the Techs were forced to give up what was left to the forty-nine-yard line. The ball was then on the V. P. I.'s seven-yard line. V. P. I. tried the line, but gained nothing. Smith went out for five yards. The oval was then on the contract field, while it was downed. V. P. I. took the ball on a fumble, and Carolina kicked to the Techs' twenty-eight-yard line, where it was caught by a Tech.

Now, as if to add to the second half,

a second attempt was made, and the ball was downed in mid-field. McNeil made two runs, went through the line for five yards, and Pittman failed to gain, and McNeil added three more, and then Mann, on a well-made take, was sent in a spiral spin round end for ten yards. Nutter was a success in a running attack, and after the visitors had broken, while the Techs dashed right and left to the line, the ball was brought back. After a little more scrummage the ball was sent to the mid-field, where it was in the Techs' possession. McNeil tried end, and again stumbled and fell, looking as giddy. The ball was kicked to Nutter on the thirty-

fourth-yard line, and the Techs

were still in good fettle, but the chances seemed better for the Carolinians.

The latter received the kick-off at the west goal. Story received the oval on the ten-yard line, and made a spectacular dash of thirty yards which was one of the most brilliant pieces of work in the whole game. Story tried the line, but without avail. Carolina kicked and the ball was placed on by one of her own men. Dugan, on the thirty-five-yard line, and things looked bright for the Techs.

Story and Smith had netted ten yards through the line. Dugan failed to gain.

Mann tried the forward pass. It was anybody's ball, and a Tech captured it on the twenty-seven-yard line. The Techs tried the famous pass, and won seven yards, and Treadwell was sent through tackle for two yards. Another long dash brought a yard, and Nutter tried a fake kick, but was downed behind the line by Foster. Treadwell was thrown for a loss for the quick-footed Grahams, and the Techs were forced to give up what was left to the forty-nine-yard line. The ball was then on the V. P. I.'s seven-yard line. V. P. I. tried the line, but gained nothing. Smith went out for five yards. The oval was then on the contract field, while it was downed. V. P. I. took the ball on a fumble, and Carolina kicked to the Techs' twenty-eight-yard line, where it was caught by a Tech.

Now, as if to add to the second half,

a second attempt was made, and the ball was downed in mid-field. McNeil made two runs, went through the line for five yards, and Pittman failed to gain, and McNeil added three more, and then Mann, on a well-made take, was sent in a spiral spin round end for ten yards. Nutter was a success in a running attack, and after the visitors had broken, while the Techs dashed right and left to the line, the ball was brought back. After a little more scrummage the ball was sent to the mid-field, where it was in the Techs' possession. McNeil tried end, and again stumbled and fell, looking as giddy. The ball was kicked to Nutter on the thirty-

fourth-yard line, and the Techs

were still in good fettle, but the chances seemed better for the Carolinians.

The latter received the kick-off at the west goal. Story received the oval on the ten-yard line, and made a spectacular dash of thirty yards which was one of the most brilliant pieces of work in the whole game. Story tried the line, but without avail. Carolina kicked and the ball was placed on by one of her own men. Dugan, on the thirty-five-yard line, and things looked bright for the Techs.

Story and Smith had netted ten yards through the line. Dugan failed to gain.

Mann tried the forward pass. It was anybody's ball, and a Tech captured it on the twenty-seven-yard line. The Techs tried the famous pass, and won seven yards, and Treadwell was sent through tackle for two yards. Another long dash brought a yard, and Nutter tried a fake kick, but was downed behind the line by Foster. Treadwell was thrown for a loss for the quick-footed Grahams, and the Techs were forced to give up what was left to the forty-nine-yard line. The ball was then on the V. P. I.'s seven-yard line. V. P. I. tried the line, but gained nothing. Smith went out for five yards. The oval was then on the contract field, while it was downed. V. P. I. took the ball on a fumble, and Carolina kicked to the Techs' twenty-eight-yard line, where it was caught by a Tech.

Now, as if to add to the second half,

a second attempt was made, and the ball was downed in mid-field. McNeil made two runs, went through the line for five yards, and Pittman failed to gain, and McNeil added three more, and then Mann, on a well-made take, was sent in a spiral spin round end for ten yards. Nutter was a success in a running attack, and after the visitors had broken, while the Techs dashed right and left to the line, the ball was brought back. After a little more scrummage the ball was sent to the mid-field, where it was in the Techs' possession. McNeil tried end, and again stumbled and fell, looking as giddy. The ball was kicked to Nutter on the thirty-

fourth-yard line, and the Techs

were still in good fettle, but the chances seemed better for the Carolinians.

The latter received the kick-off at the west goal. Story received the oval on the ten-yard line, and made a spectacular dash of thirty yards which was one of the most brilliant pieces of work in the whole game. Story tried the line, but without avail. Carolina kicked and the ball was placed on by one of her own men. Dugan, on the thirty-five-yard line, and things looked bright for the Techs.

Story and Smith had netted ten yards through the line. Dugan failed to gain.

Mann tried the forward pass. It was anybody's ball, and a Tech captured it on the twenty-seven-yard line. The Techs tried the famous pass, and won seven yards, and Treadwell was sent through tackle for two yards. Another long dash brought a yard, and Nutter tried a fake kick, but was downed behind the line by Foster. Treadwell was thrown for a loss for the quick-footed Grahams, and the Techs were forced to give up what was left to the forty-nine-yard line. The ball was then on the V. P. I.'s seven-yard line. V. P. I. tried the line, but gained nothing. Smith went out for five yards. The oval was then on the contract field, while it was downed. V. P. I. took the ball on a fumble, and Carolina kicked to the Techs' twenty-eight-yard line, where it was caught by a Tech.

Now, as if to add to the second half,

a second attempt was made, and the ball was downed in mid-field. McNeil made two runs, went through the line for five yards, and Pittman failed to gain, and McNeil added three more, and then Mann, on a well-made take, was sent in a spiral spin round end for ten yards. Nutter was a success in a running attack, and after the visitors had broken, while the Techs dashed right and left to the line, the ball was brought back. After a little more scrummage the ball was sent to the mid-field, where it was in the Techs' possession. McNeil tried end, and again stumbled and fell, looking as giddy. The ball was kicked to Nutter on the thirty-

fourth-yard line, and the Techs

were still in good fettle, but the chances seemed better for the Carolinians.

The latter received the kick-off at the west goal. Story received the oval on the ten-yard line, and made a spectacular dash of thirty yards which was one of the most brilliant pieces of work in the whole game. Story tried the line, but without avail. Carolina kicked and the ball was placed on by one of her own men. Dugan, on the thirty-five-yard line, and things looked bright for the Techs.

Story and Smith had netted ten yards through the line. Dugan failed to gain.

Mann tried the forward pass. It was anybody's ball, and a Tech captured it on the twenty-seven-yard line. The Techs tried the famous pass, and won seven yards, and Treadwell was sent through tackle for two yards. Another long dash brought a yard, and Nutter tried a fake kick, but was downed behind the line by Foster. Treadwell was thrown for a loss for the quick-footed Grahams, and the Techs were forced to give up what was left to the forty-nine-yard line. The ball was then on the V. P. I.'s seven-yard line. V. P. I. tried the line, but gained nothing. Smith went out for five yards. The oval was then on the contract field, while it was downed. V. P. I. took the ball on a fumble, and Carolina kicked to the Techs' twenty-eight-yard line, where it was caught by a Tech.

Now, as if to add to the second half,

a second attempt was made, and the ball was downed in mid-field. McNeil made two runs, went through the line for five yards, and Pittman failed to gain, and McNeil added three more, and then Mann, on a well-made take, was sent in a spiral spin round end for ten yards. Nutter was a success in a running attack, and after the visitors had broken, while the Techs dashed right and left to the line, the ball was brought back. After a little more scrummage the ball was sent to the mid-field, where it was in the Techs' possession. McNeil tried end, and again stumbled and fell, looking as giddy. The ball was kicked to Nutter on the thirty-

fourth-yard line, and the Techs

were still in good fettle, but the chances seemed better for the Carolinians.